

Figures support fears of clothing industry

3000 jobs lost in SA

[illegible]

Rock star
launches
comeback
Aust tour

SYDNEY American rock heavyweight John Millscomp arrived at Sydney Airport yesterday amid heavy security at the start of his Australian tour.

The Indiana-born star arrived with his entourage and greeted on a fan flight from Los Angeles.

After strutting through the arrival gates, Millscomp was surrounded by a crowd of minders who quickly headed him into a waiting limousine.

Millscomp and his mystery girlfriend were whisked away to head of connecting interstate flight.

The tour signals a comeback for Millscomp, 38, who several years ago virtually disappeared from the music scene after suffering a seeming disenchantment with the industry.

Daring his retirement, Millscomp took up oil painting and turned his hands to film-making.

Not only does Millscomp play the principal role in the film Falling from Grace, he also directed the picture himself.

The film traces the life of a hapless neophyte but hardy sea country singer who returns to his hometown in search of a cure for his depression.

American reviewers have received the movie

John Millscomp and a mystery girlfriend at Sydney Airport yesterday.

APPLAUSE EXECUTIVE
$45,000*

$15,990

The University of Adelaide, the premier university in the south, says that more than 100,000 graduates have left its doors in the last 10 years.

The Queensland Education Monitor for 1981 shows an unemployment rate of 7 per cent among Adelaide's first-time degree graduates, compared with a national average of 10 per cent.

The university's 15 biology graduates showed the strongest performance in the national trend, with nearly half placing jobs as geographers or ecologists in Western Australia and the Northern Territory.

The survey shows 47 per cent of the biology graduates gained work, compared with only 41 per cent nationally.

University career adviser Ms Patricia Freeman said the students had done well because they had specific, well-defined goals and were able to find work related to their field of study.

She said many graduates, particularly in the arts, had secured jobs completely unrelated to their study course, and this was a good qualification.

"While the recession will continue to restrict the employment opportunities of new graduates in 1982, a degree will continue to be a major factor in their securing a job."

The study also shows that although the market has been slow to recover, graduates are beginning to improve their qualifications and are seeking employment in a wider range of occupations in the commercial and industrial sectors.

Adelaide's graduates will 25 per cent of graduates in the country to be unemployed.

—Steve Smith

Now you can cruise in luxury in the Unstretched Limousine, the Daihatsu Applause, for the post-Sudget bargain price of $15,990.

- Power steering • 4 wheel disc brakes • 1.8 litre EFI multivalve engine
- Proven fuel economy • Made in Japan
- quality • 3 year warranty.

The Applause is a lot of car for not a lot of money. But hurry to your nearest Daihatsu showroom because stocks won't last.

Smart Car Daihatsu.

*Plus dealer delivery and statutory charges.

Smart car

DAIHATSU

Quality through Technology

Cheltenham, Moughan Town Daihatsu (08) 341 2233 Glenelg South, Dawn Potter Daihatsu (08) 294 344 Marryatville, Telor Motors (08) 332 7888 Medindale, Stillwell Daihatsu (08) 269 7199 St Peters, Les March Daihatsu (08) 363 0000

100

War crimes charges review likely

[illegible]

Wide support for moves to control cats

[illegible]

Top honors for brave pooch

[illegible]

Feline in car park knew it was time to go

The cat must have known. It was the cat par excellence at the Orthodox Teachers' Centre soon after a seminar on the cat was held in the morning.

And it was there at the cat break, a break in the seminar, that I saw the cat. I saw it sitting under the RARCA van.

At the end of the seminar, with overwhelming support for his cat to be the cat par excellence, I was vacated, without even leaving a message.

Despite the political, religious, racial, or class loyalties, expectations and positions of the cat, it was the cat par excellence at the Orthodox Teachers' Centre soon after a seminar on the cat was held in the morning.

And it was there at the cat break, a break in the seminar, that I saw the cat. I saw it sitting under the RARCA van.

At the end of the seminar, with overwhelming support for his cat to be the cat par excellence, I was vacated, without even leaving a message.

The time had come when the cat par excellence could own 'its' cat.

responsibility for the continuing 'emotional' devastation' caused by Police Association of South Australia spokeswoman, Ms Cherry, how the police cat owners had the said cat par excellence to be 'maced'.

The cat par excellence, in its control, supported the elimination of feral cats and the creation of a cat par excellence.

code of practice for registered breeders which would be 'enforced by

Some delegates would have seen the cat par excellence as a cat par excellence. Some would have hoped that the cat par excellence would be the cat par excellence at the end of the seminar, majority of delegates didn't want the cat par excellence to be the cat par excellence. It was registered and looked up to by the cat par excellence.

Period of grace for Govt rules

The House of Assembly has passed legislation enforcing a four-month waiting period for regulations set by the State Government.

Amendments by the Independent Labor Member for Elizabeth, Mr. Iain Evans, stipulate that regulations such as new water rates charges will not take effect until four months after they have been passed.

The delay will give business councils and State Parliament time to consider the regulations before they become law.

Regulations now take effect the day they are published in the Govern-

Train door bo 'won't speak'

A boy who claimed he was trapped in a train door and dragged through nine metropolitan stations had failed to co-operate with police investigating the incident. Transport Minister Mr Horvath said yesterday that the boy, who was 15 years old, had been interviewed by an Advocate's Office lawyer in connection with an article in which Adam Pryor, Irish Examiner, said he was caught by the boy on the train. The boy, who was interviewed by a Transport Authority train on Outer Harbour city line on Monday, had said that he had been caught by a handrail and had been dragged along the tracks. He had refused to give a statement to police and was being held in custody.

Adam claimed he was the only person in the carriage he had travelled on and no one else was hurt or injured. He had reported the incident to a transit officer in the area.

Mr Horvath said there had been no investigation on the line and that he did not feel a report on the incident.

"I don't want to say what happened but what I can say is that until I have all the facts," he said.

Buy now and pay in August '92

An exclusive offer
for John Martin's
Account Customers

Take advantage of this great offer and get up to 3 months interest free.

John Martin's
PLEASEING YOU IS IMPORTANT