of western news agencies in Beirut.
In fact, in the immediate aftermath of the Libyan-US confrontation, the most disturbing threats against the Americans were made in Damascus by Abu Nidal's group.
In a statement which was largely ignored at the time, Abu Nidal's office denounced on March 26 what it called "abominable American aggression (against Libya)" and warned that "anything American has from now on become a target for our revolutionaries".
The same statement also ordered Arab "reactionary regimes" to support Libya.
In west Beirut, 49 foreigners have been kidnapped in the past 36 months by different groups — several of which have links to Iran, Syria and Abu Nidal.
More than 250 US military personnel died in the bombing of the US Marines base in Beirut in October 1983, but the Americans left the country four months later... without avenging the deaths.

Libya, the US seems anxious to avoid any confrontation with Damascus to concentrate instead on Colonel Gaddafi's Government.
The Syrians and the Iranians appear to be too well protected, too big and too important in the Middle East to be the subject of US attacks. Thus, Colonel Gaddafi has been made the focus of US hostility.
Threats by Abu Nidal's Palestinian extremist faction to strike at Americans throughout the region have been made repeatedly in Damascus.
Almost every recent act of air piracy or bombing has been claimed by groups in Beirut, not in the Libyan capital of Tripoli.
Yet Libya still is blamed as the principal villain of the Arab world and is singled out for the attentions of the US Sixth Fleet.
West German security authorities were quoted yesterday as saying they had evidence that the Libyan People's Bureau in East Berlin had been behind last weekend's bombing of the West Berlin nightclub in which two people died.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL POTTS POINT — SYDNEY

On July 1, 1986 St. Luke's, a non-diocesan Anglican Hospital established in 1919 and operated as a public hospital for the last 34 years, will revert to private operation with a complement of 136 beds. A modernisation programme involving extensive renovations, re-equipping and refurbishing will be largely completed by that date and applications are sought for the following position:

General Manager

The appointee will be responsible to the St. Luke's board for total administration of the hospital complex including a 90 bed private nursing home (opened in 1983) and planned construction of 60 retirement apartments.

St. Luke's has long enjoyed a high reputation for quality and service in the community. The successful applicant will be committed to the pursuit of Christian excellence in every aspect of operation. A record of successful business achievement, including the motivation of staff to a high standard of performance, is required. Formal business/accounting qualifications would be well regarded. A background in the health industry is not essential.

An excellent remuneration package, in keeping with the seniority of the position, will be made available to the successful applicant.

All applications should be addressed to the advisory consultants.

Applications will be treated with the strictest confidence and no information will be forwarded to the client without the expressed approval of the applicant.

IS AUSTRALIA PROTECTING NAZI WAR CRIMINALS?

In the years immediately following World War II, Australia welcomed thousands of decent, skilled, enthusiastic immigrants from all over the world.

But among them, came hundreds of Nazi collaborators, some escaping punishment for crimes against humanity.

Successive governments from the 40s to the 70s have denied their existence, but the facts are irrefutable.

Today, Nazis hold positions of influence and authority in Australia.

In some cases we know who they are.

This painstakingly researched, five part radio series, produced and presented by Mark Aarons, will probably make you very angry. Certainly it raises questions that demand to be answered.
